STAMFORD — The transition from grade to grade can be challenging for students, particularly when they transition to middle school or high school.

To help families with the change, Successful Study Skills 4 Students will host free workshops on “Seven Must-Have Skills All Students Need to Transition into the Next Grade.”

The workshops, which will be held at Chelsea Piers Connecticut on April 19 and May 5, will teach parents important skills their children need to finish the school year strong and transition into the next grade and/or school.

“Parents naturally want their children to have every possible competitive advantage, in the classroom and on the playing fields — especially as finals loom, and the next academic year approaches. As in sports, implementing even a single new skill has been shown to boost students’ motivation and academic performance,” said Michelle Sagalyn, president of Successful Study Skills 4 Students.

In the workshop, Sagalyn will demonstrate how parents can prepare their student for finals, and for the next school year. The workshops will also cover effective note taking, how to set goals, time management, and other skills that can make a difference for students.

“Chelsea Piers is interested developing a complete athlete,” said Greta Wagner, executive director of Chelsea Piers Connecticut. “We are pleased to be able to offer tools and programs that help parents and athletes off the playing surface.”

Two of the the workshops are being offered for middle and high school parents on Tuesday, April 19, 7 p.m. and Thursday, May 5, 7 p.m.

The workshops are open to the public and membership to Chelsea Piers is not required.
